

City to Kyrock North Front St. Oil Wilbur Ave.

North Front Street Trolley Tracks Will Be Torn Up. Water Board Will Lay 16-Inch Water Pipe and City Will Resurface Street—Other City Improvements.

The board of public works Monday evening made plans for resurfacing North Front street with Kyrock this spring when it is planned to tear up the trolley tracks and lay in that street which will be followed by the laying of a 16-inch water main through the street by the water board. The board of public works plans to follow up the work of the water board by resurfacing the street, laying Kyrock over the present brick pavement. Work will be pushed forward as rapidly as possible when it is started so that the street may be ready for the heavy summer traffic that is expected.

Mayor E. J. Dempsey presided at the session with Dr. George F. Chandler and E. E. Fessenden in attendance.

To Oil Wilbur Avenue. After some discussion it was decided to oil Wilbur avenue this year in order to preserve the pavement. According to Superintendent W. Scott Van Keuren it would cost about $2,500 to do the work.

"No Parking" Plan.

Dr. Chandler in discussing the "no parking" problem said that in other cities the plan had been adopted of doing away with the small sidewalk "no parking" signs and instead to mark off blocks on the street pavement itself with the legend "No Parking" written on the pavement. Newburgh was adopting that plan as well as other cities, and it was decided to give it a trial here this year.

Rebuild O'Reilly Street Bridge.

The engineer of grade crossings of the New York Central railroad wrote that they were contemplating the reconstruction of the superstructure of the bridge carrying the West State tracks over O'Reilly street, and unless the city had some improvement in mind which would require widening the bridge they would simply replace the present superstructure.

As the city has no present plans to effect the communication was filed.

Ryan to Make Improvements.

William D. Ryan, wrote that he contemplated improving his property on Converse street and asked to be furnished the grade of the street as established by the city. His request was referred to the city engineer to furnish him the desired information.

Shokan Man Locates Here.

Nicholas Winkler of West Shokan wrote that he had purchased the property at No. 35 East Chester street, at Hasbrouck avenue, in which was already located a small store and he desired permission to enlarge the store by extending it twenty-two feet on Hasbrouck avenue.

His request was granted.

What Dustoline Costs.

The Dustoline Company submitted a bid of 14 cents a gallon for Dustoline to be used on the streets next summer. The bid was filed.

Wants Drain in Street.

Clarence L. Hyde of 15 Reynolds street wrote calling attention to the fact that where he resided the street was low and all of the street water gathered in front of his property, and he sought relief. He also desired a street light placed in the center of the street. It was referred to the superintendent to inform Mr. Hyde if the street was graded and pavement laid the property owners would have to pay 75 per cent of the cost of construction.

Relocating Gas Tank.

John Kleckner requested permission to relocate his gas tank at Hurley avenue and Taylor street. The request was referred to Superintendent Van Keuren.

Wants Bicycle Rack.

The Western Union wrote asking permission to place a bicycle rack on the sidewalk in front of the office on John street for the messenger boys. It was referred to the superintendent.

Wanted Garbage Contract.

John Krajewski of No. 66 Third avenue wrote that he would like to enter into a contract with the city to collect and dispose of all wet garbage in the city. If the proposition was given favorable attention he would furnish more complete details of his plan.

The board believed that the present method of handling the city garbage afforded the best results and filed the communication.

To Change Street Name?

Albion Sherman's resolution that as there were two Fairview avenues in the city, counting confusion, that the names be changed to North and South Fairview avenues, was referred to the corporation council.

A petition from property owners asking that a sidewalk be laid at 4th Street and Bruyn Avenue was referred to the superintendent.

Job's Time Stopped for Permission to Install a new air stand to replace the one recently damaged. It was referred to the superintendent.

The board then adjourned.

Judge Anderson's Condition Critical.

The condition of Judge Anderson, who is ill at his home on Johnson avenue, is critical.

Coolidge to Spend Summer in West

President Has Made No Selection But Has Made Up His Mind To Establish Summer White House Beyond Alleghenies.

Washington, March 8 (AP).—President Coolidge intends to spend the summer in the west.

He has made no selection among the many summer residences offered him in western states but he has made up his mind to establish his summer White House somewhere beyond the Alleghenies.

Others that he regards as very tempting have come to him from places covering the stretch from Michigan to Utah.

He does not want to spend the summer too far away from Washington but he feels the west would provide better than any other part of the country the elevation and cool climate which he intends to make a pre-requisite of any selection he may make.

Neither has he decided when he will leave Washington. He recently moved out of the White House to permit extensive repairs to be made to the upper story and roof, and is comfortably housed now in one of Washington's finest residences on Du Pont Circle.

It is unlikely that he will choose another moving day until he begins to feel the pressure of real summer weather, perhaps as late as July or August.

For years Mr. Coolidge has suffered from a mild bronchial trouble that has made Washington particularly depressing for him and has led him to seek higher altitudes for his vacations.

Quite aside from that consideration, he is said by his intimates to desire to become better acquainted with the west and middle west.

Many Killed in Japan Earthquake

Casualties, Including Both Dead and Injured May Reach 5,000—Mrs. Glen Schultze, American Woman, Reported Drowned.

Tokyo, March 8 (AP).—Dispatches trickling over crippled telephone and telegraph lines indicate that the casualties in yesterday's earthquake in central Japan, including both dead and injured, may reach 5,000.

This figure, however, is speculative, and the Japanese home office asserts that, so far as is known, only 40 persons were killed and 67 injured.

A telegram to the Hochi Shimbun from Kyoto gives prefectural police reports as authority for the statement that there were 1,000 casualties.

Several foreigners are reported to be injured at Osaka and Kobe, but their names are not given. The only death among foreigners is the reported drowning of an unidentified American woman, who fell into the water at Kobe from a crowded gangplank as the tourist steamer California was making ready to sail.

Six others were injured. They are understood to have continued aboard the ship.

Army airplanes have gone to the Togo region from Kyoto to investigate the damages. This district, which was the hardest hit, is not heavily populated but is studded with small villages, inhabitants of which are employed in the production of silk.

Mrs. Glen Schultze Drowned.

Glasgow, Scotland, March 8 (AP).—The Anchor line received a message today stating that the woman passenger on the tourist steamer California who lost her life during yesterday's earthquake was Mrs. Glen Schultze. No other passengers were hurt, the message added.

The name of Mrs. Jeanie Glen Schultze appears on the list of tourists aboard the California in the records of Clark's Tours, which arranged the California's itinerary. Her address is given as Ventnor, N. J.

Miss Bacharach In Quake Zone

Miss Lillian Bacharach of No. 13 Rose street is a passenger on board the steamer California which is in the earthquake zone in Japan. Dispatches from Kobe, described as the center of the quake in one report, said a gangplank collapsed while American tourists were boarding the ship during the tremors and that some were injured. Whether Miss Bacharach was among the injured is not known at this time.

Storm Warning Issued.

Washington, March 8 (AP).—The weather bureau today issued the following storm warning:

"Advisory 3:24 a. m. northwest storm warnings ordered Cape Hatteras to Boston and southeast storm warnings north of Boston to Newport. Storm of shifted intensity over North Atlantic States and St. Lawrence valley moving eastward."

Bellevue Avenue Property Sold.

Seaman Must Not Publish Error

Highland Man Enjoined From Making Use of Erroneous Transcript of Judgment—Thinks Terrible Conditions Exist in Government.

An action brought by County Clerk John H. Saxe against John R. Seaman of Highland to enjoin defendant from making use of or publishing the contents of an erroneous transcript of judgment was taken up at the morning session of the Supreme court today. John W. Eckert appeared for the county clerk and Mr. Seaman appeared in person.

An appeal was taken from a judgment found in Justice S. G. Carpenter's court in Highland to the county court. Judge Fowler upheld the decision of the lower court which had found a judgment in the sum of $25 for Herbert Seaman against Rose Seaman, wife of John R. Seaman.

The judgment was duly entered in the county clerk's office and filed. In making an entry on the docket books, an employee of the office in error inverted the judgment in entering it on the docket book and later on application of Mr. Seaman a transcript of judgment was given him from the docket book which in effect was that Rose Seaman had a judgment against Herbert Seaman.

Shortly after John R. Seaman left the clerk's office with the transcript of judgment the error was discovered and a letter was sent to Mr. Seaman explaining the situation and returning his fees and asking for a return of the paper. This he refused to do and turned the paper over to a printer at Poughkeepsie.

A temporary injunction was had to restrain the circulation of the erroneous paper and application was made to have the injunction made permanent.

Claimed He Was Damaged.

Mr. Seaman appeared for himself in the matter and made verbal charges against public officials in an attempt to prove he had been damaged by reason of the transcript erroneously having been entered.

He charged that he relied on the fact that there was no judgment entered on the docket book against his wife and that although he had been notified by his attorney who represented him on the appeal in county court and the statement of Judge Fowler that the decision of the lower court had been confirmed and judgment rendered against his wife, he contended that he had been damaged because his time for appeal had expired before he became aware of the error in entering the judgment.

He said the transcript of judgment was in the hands of his printer who prints a magazine "Truth". He desired to appeal from Judge Fowler's decision but the time to appeal had elapsed before he discovered that there had been an error made in entering the case on the docket book. The original paper from which the entry was made was on file in the clerk's office and is correct.

Judge Nichols's Decision.

Judge Nichols directed that the docket book be corrected and ruled that no damages had been sustained by Mr. Seaman through the erroneous entry. He gave Seaman 20 days to appeal from his decision and if an appeal is taken, 60 days to perfect an appeal. He also taxed costs to defendant John R. Seaman, and enjoined defendant from using the transcript, publishing it, and also directed that Mr. Seaman, his agent or his servants—whenever he had the transcript—to return it.

Mr. Seaman charged and attempted to put in evidence statements by himself that acid was used to alter entries in public books and that papers in his case had not been properly cared for and filed. He explained how through his paper in Poughkeepsie he had frequently attempted to expose terrible conditions which exist in the town, county, state and possibly national government. Lawyers, judges and others were referred to in no uncertain manner.

The error in the docket book was corrected by drawing two red lines through the erroneous entry and marking it "error in entry." The corrected entry was then made.

Cowego, N. Y., March 8 (AP).—The woman drowning victim, supposed to be a Syracuse resident, whose body was found in Lake Ontario, one mile west of this city late yesterday afternoon, was identified late last night as Miss Catherine Helen Moore, 40, of 214 South Fifth street, Pulteney, daughter of James and the late Catherine Moore. She left home at 10 o'clock yesterday morning. She had been ill for a year and a half.

ADAMS DEPARTS FROM MAKING STATEMENT.

Washington, March 8 (AP).—Congress for Harry F. Sinclair in his Senate campaign trial here today succeeded in blocking former Senator A. B. Adams of Colorado from making a statement to the court about the case, even after the jury had been excluded from the room.

A group of men taking a sun bath on Grand and Seymour streets today exhibited Dave Ruth's probable horizon for 1927 and watching a negro and white boy playing catch.

Miller Sentenced For 18 Months

In Federal Prison at Atlanta and To Pay a Fine of $5,000—Miller's Counsel Announces He Will Appeal.

New York, March 8 (AP).—Thomas W. Miller, former alien property custodian, found guilty of conspiracy to defraud the United States of his honest and unbiased services, today was sentenced to serve 18 months in the federal prison at Atlanta and to pay a fine of $5,000.

Imposition of sentence was by Judge John C. Knox, who held court in an office in the Federal Building. A large crowd was in attendance.

Mrs. Miller was with her husband when sentence was pronounced. Miller's counsel, Aaron Sapiro, announced that he would appeal.

Judge Knox granted 24 hours in which to file appeal. Miller and his wife then left for their home in Wilmington, Del. Miller's bail of $5,000 was continued pending the appeal action.

Miller was indicted with Harry M. Daugherty, former attorney-general, the late John T. King, Republican national committeeman from Connecticut, and Jess W. Smith, Daugherty's handy man, who committed suicide in Washington in 1912. It was alleged they conspired to pass claims for $7,000,000 proceeds of the sale of impounded American Metal Company shares seized during the war as German owned.

Evidence was adduced to show that $50,000 of a "fee" of $441,000 paid to King to effect allowance of the claims went to Miller's banking and brokerage accounts. The jury disagreed on Daugherty, who was tried with Miller.

U. S. Proposes New Conference

Three-Power Naval Limitation Conference to Meet in Geneva Proposed by United States to Great Britain and Japan.

Washington, March 8 (AP).—The United States has proposed to Great Britain and Japan a three-power naval limitation conference to meet in Geneva not earlier than June 1.

In the event of acceptance by the London and Tokyo governments, which have not as yet replied, France and Italy probably will be asked to send representatives to the conference as observers.

The new invitation is understood to contain no definite formula for fixing maximum tonnage limitations upon cruisers, destroyers and submarines.

The purpose of the conference at Geneva will be to explore the possibilities at arriving at an understanding for these maximum tonnage limitations which could be accepted, particularly by Great Britain as a European power and in view of the non-participation of France and Italy in the agreement.

The Washington government recognizes that such limitations on construction as it hopes will be reached must be subject to periodic review by the three governments in the light of building programs in similar types of ships which may be undertaken by any third government not a party to the agreement.

It is believed in Washington, however, that a satisfactory arrangement for reconsidering the maximum tonnage limitations in any class of auxiliary ships annually, if necessary, can be worked out at Geneva.

At the White House it was disclosed that President Coolidge regards the tentative advice thus far received from abroad as promising for success of the three-power plan.

The President believes the three-power plan would have been more promising in practical results than a three-power project could be, but he is anxious to do the next best thing if a five-power meeting is impossible.

Henry Forst May Succeed Rafferty

It is understood, although not officially announced, that Henry Forst of the Jacob Forst Packing Company, Inc., will be appointed a member of the board of public works to fill the vacancy caused by the death of William F. Rafferty. Mr. Forst is one of the younger business men of Kingston and his appointment will meet with general approval.

STATE CITY LEAGUE WORKER DIES OF PNEUMONIA.

Albany, N. Y., March 8 (AP).—Rev. Frederick A. Gates, superintendent of law and order department of the New York State Civic League, died last night of pneumonia at Watken, where he went nearly a month ago to deliver a series of addresses.

For two years Mr. Gates had headed the league's field and detective forces, concentrating on a campaign against liquor violators. For some time he had been working for the Anti-Saloon League, and prior to his connection with that organization was pastor of the First Presbyterian Church at Cortland.

New Judicial District Planned

Both Houses of Legislature Pass Bill Creating New Judicial District Out of Nassau, Suffolk and Queens—Delay Passage of Baume's Crime Commission.

Albany, N. Y., March 8 (AP).—Creation of a new judicial district out of the counties of Nassau, Suffolk and Queens, which together with Kings and Richmond comprise the present first judicial district, is provided by a bill passed by both houses of the Legislature.

When the measure came up for consideration in the Senate last night it drew from Minority Leader Bernard Downing the charge that it was an attempt to place more Republicans on the Supreme court bench.

The bill finally passed by a vote of 27 to 22 with the Democrats voting against it to a man.

In the Assembly the bill created little stir. When it was read out from the calendar Assemblyman Louis A. Cuvillier, Democrat of New York, asked Assemblyman John Boyle, Republican of Suffolk, who introduced the measure in the lower house, for an explanation.

Mr. Boyle had complied with the request, however, Mr. Cuvillier withdrew all objections and the bill was passed with only two dissenting votes.

Assembly Passes Highway Bill.

The Assembly passed the Hewitt bill appropriating $18,000,000 for maintenance and repair of state and county highways and bridges and the Hutchinson bill appropriating $91,733 for state aid to counties engaged in public health work. The former had already passed the Senate.

Delay Action on Baumes.

After considerable debate action on a resolution to extend the life of the Baumes Crime Commission for another year was postponed at the suggestion of Minority Leader Maurice Bloch, who said he thought the measure was not properly drafted.

He said the commission had already gone out of existence and therefore could not be continued. Sponsors of the resolution thereupon agreed to delay passage until the validity of the bill could be examined and, if necessary, a new resolution drawn up.

Agricultural Schools to Remain.

Minority Leader Bloch attempted to amend one of the reorganization committee bills so as to empower the commissioner of education and the state board of regents to discontinue the secondary agricultural schools of the state, but his motion for adoption of the amendment was lost by a vote of 60 to 30.

Asserting that records showed that less than five per cent of the graduates of the secondary agricultural schools had gone back to the farms, Mr. Bloch charged the Republicans with desiring to continue these institutions merely for political purposes.

Wet and Dry Feature.

The wet and dry question featured again when Assemblyman Edmund B. Jenks, Republican of Broome, and Assemblyman Louis A. Cuvillier, Democrat of New York, moved for discharge of committee from further consideration of bills they had introduced.

Mr. Cuvillier's bill was designed to make it unlawful for any officer, in enforcing the Volstead act, to enter premises for search and seizure without first obtaining a court order. The Jenks bill sought to amend the Mulligan-Gage state enforcement act, which was repealed in 1921, but which Mr. Jenks contended is still in force.

Mr. Jenks's motion for discharge was tabled on motion of Minority Leader Bloch, which was adopted by a vote of 56 to 39, while Mr. Cuvillier's motion for discharge of his bill was defeated 79 to 59, lacking only six votes of the necessary majority.

Both houses adopted resolutions providing for the appointment of committees to represent them at the funeral of Senator Daniel J. Carroll, who died at his home in Brooklyn Sunday.

Charge Butcher Killed Woman

Alleged Confession by W. S. Fuentstueck, Bethlehem Butcher, That He Killed Miss Evelyn Hummel, Clears Up Mystery.

Albiontown, Pa., March 8 (AP).—An alleged confession today by W. S. Fuentstueck, a Bethlehem butcher, that he was the slayer of Miss Evelyn Hummel, shot to death here last night, apparently had cleared up the mystery to the satisfaction of the police. A charge of murder was lodged against Fuentstueck, who has a wife and five children.

Fuentstueck, arrested a few hours after the slaying, was said to have told the police that he shot Miss Hummel, also of Bethlehem, when she refused to continue their friendship after having learned he was married.

His wife recently returned from a hospital, where she had been a patient for several months. It was then, the police said, that Miss Hummel learned that he was married.

Miss Hummel had motored here to visit a girlhood friend, Mrs. James Duckalew, who persuaded her to remain over night. The young woman was shot when Mrs. Duckalew stopped across the street to arrange at a garage for the storing of her car.

When she returned she found Miss Hummel dead on the pavement in front of the Duckalew apartment with five bullet wounds in her body. A sixth bullet, which had missed its mark, crashed through the window of a nearby house.

Fuentstueck was arrested at his home a few hours later. An automatic pistol was found in the furnace. It was loaded and apparently had been tossed on the hot coals only a moment before police arrived.

Jurors Doubted Judge's Power

Two Jurors Declined to Bring In Verdict Directed by Judge Nichols In Penalty Action Until Threatened With Punishment for Contempt.

After taking testimony in the penalty action brought by the State of New York against Fred D. Cure to recover $60 as specified by law as damages growing out of a dog running deer in a state park, Judge Nichols late Monday afternoon directed the jury which heard the evidence to bring in a verdict against the defendant and for the plaintiff.

There seemed to be some doubt in the minds of the jurors as to whether they should bring in such a verdict at the direction of the court and two of the jurors on polling the jury refused at first to find a verdict against the defendant as directed by the court. Only after the court had stated that punishment for contempt of court would follow unless the jury did as directed did the jury finally agree on the verdict as directed.

The charge grew out of an alleged running of a deer by the dog of Mr. Cure. On the trial testimony was introduced to the effect that the dog at the time it is alleged to have been running deer was at home. It was alleged that the dog had not run deer on the day in question as it was not in the woods and that the collar which was introduced in evidence could not have been taken off the dog on the day in question, but must have been taken at some other date. The defendant contended that it was not his dog which was running deer on September 16, 1925, and testimony was introduced to show that the dog was home that day.

However, Judge Nichols directed a verdict against defendant, John W. Eckert, appeared for defendant and a representative of the attorney general's office appeared for the prosecution.

The dog in question was shot, according to the plaintiff, by Charles Perross, a fire warden.

Another Suicide At Princeton

Brace Frederick Wilson of Louisville, Ky., a Princeton University sophomore, is found hanging in his room—Second Suicide Within a Month.

Princeton, N. J., March 8 (AP).—Brace Frederick Wilson of Louisville, Ky., a sophomore at Princeton University and for three terms an honor man, was found hanging in his room in Hamilton Hall today.

Wilson, who was 20, had been in poor physical condition, university authorities said. He left an note which was found in his room, in which he said he was suffering from a mental trouble.

Wilson drank a bottle of poison before hanging himself. The empty bottle was found near his body. Friends of the youth said that he had become super-sensitive within the last few weeks and for the last two weeks had almost lived the life of a recluse.

He remained alone on the third floor of the dormitory and the janitor, John Tindall, Jr., found the body when he entered the room to make up the beds.

Oratorical Guns Loaded for Last Wet and Dry Fight

Resolution of Assemblyman Cuvillier, Having For Its Ultimate Object a National Constitutional Convention To Repeal 18th Amendment, Comes Up Today.

Albany, N. Y., March 8 (AP).—The last "wet and dry" field day of the 1927 session of the Legislature was set for today. Oratorical and forensic artillery was unlimbered and ready to be aimed at the members of the Assembly committee on judiciary as they listened to the arguments for and against the resolution of Assemblyman Louis A. Cuvillier, Democrat of New York, wet leader of the lower house, which had for its ultimate object a national constitutional convention to repeal the 18th amendment.

The resolution is in the form of a request to congress for a federal constitutional convention. Since the adoption of the Constitution in 1789 there has never been a constitutional convention. In the meantime 28 states have at various times requested a convention and the addition of four more states to the list of petitioners will be sufficient to bring it about.

Prominent Leaders Fear Chaos. It was the understanding at the capitol that wet Republicans would not rally to the Cuvillier proposal in the same force that they have backed other legislative attempts to modify or repeal enforcement statutes, both state and national. This was not because their views on prohibition have undergone any change, but because prominent party leaders have expressed the belief that a national constitutional convention might be productive of so many proposals to alter the basic law of the nation that virtual chaos would result.

Charles D. Hilles, New York member of the Republican National Committee, and Louis Marshall, constitutional lawyer, recently have expressed opposition to the Cuvillier proposal. In view of the pressure exerted by the Republican leaders, it was considered doubtful if the supporters of the Cuvillier resolution could muster a majority in either house of the Legislature.

Wayne B. Wheeler, general counsel for the Anti-Saloon League; William B. Wilson, secretary of labor in President Wilson's cabinet, and Representative Hamilton Fish were expected to appear before the committee in opposition.

Imposing Array of Supporters. Mr. Cuvillier, who was marshaling his forces in favor of the measure, said that he would have an imposing array of supporters, including representatives of the women's committee for modification of the Volstead act. This organization is the successor to the Molly Pitcher Club, which aided in the successful campaign of 1923 in favor of the repeal of the Mulligan-Gage state enforcement act.

Mr. Cuvillier also was prepared to present to the committee a quantity of letters and telegrams endorsing his proposal.

One letter, from Irvin S. Cobb, author, read: "I heartily and unqualifiedly endorse the resolution now before the New York legislature regarding the 18th Amendment."

CHARGE SHERIFF AND THREE OTHERS WITH ASSAULT.

Soperton, Ga., March 8 (AP).—Sheriff W. L. Thigpen of Trenton county, two farmers and another man were charged with assault with intent to murder on H. M. Flanders, editor of the Soperton News, who was beaten senseless on the night of February 25 by hooded men.

The editor's cousin, Sheriff G. F. Flanders of Emmanuel county, was charged with the arrests yesterday, aided by his own deputies and two Trenton county policemen.

The four men, Thigpen, Henry McIlendon and Raymond Lee, farmers, and Raymond's son, Joe Lee, a filling station employee, were lodged in Emmanuel county jail, unable to make $2,000 bond. Each refused to comment.

Sheriff Flanders, active in the case since his cousin stumbled into his own home, sick and bleeding, announced that other arrests were to follow.

Flanders, confined to his home by a spinal injury and severe shock, supposedly furnished the information on which the arrests were made. At the same of the docketing he was able to give only a sketchy statement.

PAPERMAKERS DEFY THE AGAINST GENERAL INCREASE.

Albany, N. Y., March 8 (AP).—The wage scale conference of the International Brotherhood of Papermakers, meeting here, has decided against a general increase. It was deferred today.

The committee on wages in the news, bag, banking and craft mills offered resolutions carrying wage increases of from five to twenty-five cents an hour, but disagreement among the delegates led to the substitution of a resolution favoring continuation of the present schedule with a few adjustments for third hands and better workers. The present scale for mill workers ranges from $1 to $4.50 an hour.

FORCIBLE HAIR BOBBING SETS TOWN IN UPROAR

Woman's Long Curls Cut Off by Force When Husbands Admire Them.

Whittier, Calif.—When pretty Mrs. Evelyn Thompson suffered her long, twisting curls to be bobbed by force one day recently this little town was suddenly thrown into an uproar. Men, women and children divided into two camps, one side favoring bobbed hair and the other side hating the modern "bopper." Now the entire state of California is becoming entangled in the fight.

The admitted instigators of the whole affair are facing prison sentences. One, Mrs. Florence Nutt, is held in bail of $5,000 awaiting trial in Los Angeles on a charge of mayhem—willfully disfiguring a person.

The other, Mrs. Lucille Raulston, is sought by the police all over the nation, although neighbors declare she told them she was moving to India. She, too, is charged with mayhem. Conviction on this charge in California means from one to fourteen years in prison.

Back of all the bobbed hair war in Whittier is the green-eyed god, jealousy, police assert. Mrs. Evelyn Thompson was a little more than twenty years old. She has a good husband and little boy and drives a pretty automobile. She was fascinating—so fascinating that there was not one gentleman in Whittier who wouldn't admit it.

Ship, Snip, They Went.

Refuses to Bob Hair.

Not one woman would admit Mrs. Thompson's charms, though. She dressed well. She was popular at the town's leading social events, and probably she would have been the town's prize beauty if a beauty contest had been held.

Making Mrs. Thompson more unpopular with the women was the fact that she had refused month after month to have her hair bobbed. She liked it old-fashioned, she said. And husbands everywhere agreed with her judgment—agreed so well, in fact, that they carelessly mentioned the preference in the presence of their wives, it later was revealed.

The climax came when the husbands of Mrs. Nutt and Mrs. Raulston mentioned their appreciation of Mrs. Thompson's pretty locks. One afternoon soon afterward Mrs. Nutt and Mrs. Raulston invited their friend, Mrs. Thompson, into Mrs. Raulston's house.

As she stepped into a sewing room the door was locked. On the table lay a large pair of shears. Mrs. Raulston, police say, spoke very slowly and decidedly:

"You have flirted with my husband long enough. I am going to fix you so no man will ever stop to look at you again."

With this the shears were brought into play. Snip, snip, they went, while Mrs. Thompson's long curls fell off. Her neck was cut. Her hands were wounded, and her face was scratched as she fought against the two women who held her. It is alleged.

Taken to Jail.

It was a sorry looking Evelyn who ran home to tell her husband what had happened to her curls. But it was a sorer pair of women who a few hours later were taken to jail by police on charges of assault and battery. The judge fined Mrs. Raulston $50. Florence Nutt demanded trial at a later date.

While Mrs. Thompson's town rocked in a bobbed hair war—with the "boppers" belligerently set against the more conservative women—Mrs. Thompson went to Los Angeles and called at the district attorney's office. Next day Mrs. Nutt was rearrested on a charge of mayhem. The officer from the Los Angeles office went to Mrs. Raulston's home to arrest her on the same charge. But he was told she had gone to India. "Where her husband took a job rather suddenly."

Supreme Court Begins Busy Term

Judge Nichols Directs Additional Jurors to Be Summoned Because Many Seek to Be Excused—Penalty Action On Trial.

The March term of the Supreme court was convened at the court house Monday afternoon with Judge Charles E. Nichols on the bench. All members of the grand jury were present and Henry J. Shurtler of Ellenville was made foreman. Four members of the panel were excused by the court when they presented legal excuses. They were Julius Eckert Esopus, Isaac Farber, Kingston; Eckert Gossow, Shandaken; A. D. McKinstry, Gardiner.

The panel of trial jurors, however, did not come through the excuse period so fortunately. When the court had received the last excuse he found that seventeen had been excused and there were but 19 men left available for jury duty. Judge Nichols immediately asked that the jury boxes, both city and county, be brought into court and that 12 men be summoned immediately from the city box so that available jurors would be on hand in the morning when court convened. If additional jurors are needed an extra panel will be drawn later from the county box. Sheriff Rice was ordered to have the 12 men in court this morning at 10 o'clock.

Dog Causes Law Suit.

A day calendar made up by Deputy County Clerk Geroldsek was called and the first case on the calendar was ready for trial. A jury was selected and the case was taken up for trial. The action is a penalty action brought by The People of the State of New York against Fred D. Cure of Pine Hill under the conservation law and charges that a dog owned by the defendant was found in the woods chasing deer. The dog was shot by Fire Observer Charles Persons near his fire tower in the Catskill Park preserve. The action is brought under that section of the Conservation law which states that a dog, licensed, if caught unaccompanied by the owner in a state park chasing deer, makes the owner of the dog responsible for damages. The penalty in this case is $40.

It is alleged that the fire observer saw the dog on a deer track some 150 feet from the fire tower and some three miles within the Catskill Park limits. He secured his gun and started after the dog, which he shot some 200 feet from the tower. The dog bore a license issued to Mr. Cure. The action ensued. A representative of the attorney general's office appeared for The People.

"Not One Cent for Tribute," John W. Eckert appeared for Mr. Cure and stated in his opening that he would not reveal his defense. The answer is a general denial of the complaint. He said that he would unfold the defense to the jury as the trial progressed and stated that it was a case in which the reason for the action would be clearly outlined before the case was concluded. He said it was a case of "millions for defense but not one cent for tribute."

In securing the jury several of the men called stated that they could not, and would not find a man guilty and impose a fine on him in such an action. They did not believe that the owner of a dog should pay a fine where a dog was caught running deer, if the dog was licensed. Some said it was natural for a dog to run animals and the owner could not always control the dog which might have been taken in the woods to run rabbits. The alleged violation was committed on September 10, 1925.

Winter Resorters Are Lightly Clad

Vivid Colors Dominate; Gay Ensembles Conspicuous, Paris Writer Says.

As the frosty days arrive the smart continental world turns with relief to the warmth and distractions of the Riviera, observes a Paris fashion writer in the Louisville Courier-Journal. Along the numerous promenades vivid colors dominate, gay ensembles and jaunty sports costumes rival one another for the first place. Naturally enough the smart winter resorters are lightly clad, while the rest of the world suffers from cold and bulk. At Nice and Cannes the slim lines are carried out in filmy textures, whether it be in the realm of sportswear, afternoon or evening frocks. Colors, while brilliant, are for the most part consistent with fabrics in that they are light and soft.

The sports type of clothing seen along the Riviera is ingenious and attractive. Patou suggests an ensemble composed of a dark-red crepe coat lined with pink jersey to match the revers and cuffs, and a frock or skirt with little plaits let in the center front.

Another Patou offering is in the form of a clear colored striped jersey jumper piped in clear colors in the same tones, accompanied by a plain skirt.

There is a little cardigan frock by Drecoll in black sweater pink "choline" banded with pink "choline" and trimmed with a black patent leather belt and a scarf to match the edging.

Woolen mixtures. The vogue for woolen mixtures is indulged in by Chantal, who designs a jacket in reddish wool to wear over a skirt of beige or natural kasha, which has yellowish stripe bands over the box plaits.

Lelong follows with several ensembles consisting of dark woolen coats, often navy blue, lined with foulard to match the accompanying frock. Martail et Armand offer a striking sports costume of white crepe de chine—the frock is made with a close collar and lavishly embroidered in red, and is worn with a white georgette fichu and a red jacket.

Premet's sleeveless velvet jacket, worn with the simple frock, is heralded as among the popular themes of short coats and little frocks; there is one in green crepe with a green coat, one in banana crepe with a paleot in beige velvet, and another in blue jersey with a blue velvet coat.

Patou gives advance notes of a little black and "chemise" in white embroidered in black and green.

At luncheon one may wear Patou's black stiff satin frock or peau de soie, as the material is generally called. One of Helma's coats may be chosen, such as a model which looks like a frock in black "choline" with vertical black silk stitches over extremely fine plaits. The broad belt is inset and the lining is in green georgette.

Chantal's pour la pluie is a fascinating coat in changeable green and pink, one below the hips and one near the bottom, which look, at first glance, like lace. This is worn over a satin foundation.

There is a specific costume for every occasion on the Riviera, and milady's wardrobe is a dazzling variety of gay frocks and coats. Every detail is in perfect harmony, from her hats, which are in bright colors, to her slippers, the majority of which are either of novelty reptile or colored to match the ensemble.

It had always been our impression that when finally the mode recovered from its temporary aberration, it would be the genius male of the haute couture who would be found to have first poured oil on the turbulent modal waters. Not that any impachment of the gentle couturiers was intended—it was rather our belief that the masculine eye was a little more sensitive to the decline of feminine charm that had been brought about by the modernistic orgy. You may remember the formerly current sentiment that one day the pulsant male would rise indignantly and demand that these encroachments on his domain must forthwith cease and that woman be womanlike again.

That long expected uprising has never taken place—either because the masculine of the species has become extraordinarily docile, or because his influence on feminine fashions has always been greatly exaggerated. In the early and hectic days of the period from which we are just emerging, one of the moot questions of the moment was whether milady dressed primarily to attract her own or the opposite sex. The overwhelming consensus of opinion favored the opposite sex, and tearfully protesting Grundys of immediate post-war vintage would always call upon man to arrest the decadent surges of feminine fashions.

Reaction is setting in.

Spring openings and fall openings came and went and each succeeding season saw the new order more firmly entrenched. The obvious sacrifice of charm in the modern styles was heeded by neither couturier nor couturiere—by neither beau nor belle—Jeanne Lanvin, Paul Poiret and others, battled strongly to maintain the graceful tradition of the old regime—now and then a prominent member of society would attempt to stem the tide by wearing a gown which incorporated something of Victorian elegance. But these were the merest drops of water in an ocean of manish modernism—the sweeping modal tides were not even momentarily disturbed by such occasional dissenters.

Lately the momentum of these tides has perceptibly lessened—in fact at this moment they are completely arrested, and an laudible and happy reaction is setting in. This recession from what has been called the new order has not been accomplished by masculine opinion or masculine designer—neither is it the result of any sudden awakening of the feminine style conscience. If any of these causes had inaugurated this new feeling in fashions you would be justified in considering the changed order as merely transitory and subject to relapse momentarily into accustomed channels.

Cause for Decline.

The actual cause for the decline of these themes which are considered modernistic is, as Nicole Groult sagely points out, because their force is spent. It is scarcely possible to conceive of a feminine culture which is any straighter or shorter than the current bon—the present conforming hipline has been emphasized to an exaggerated degree and the skirt will only become new again when it drops lower.

It is merely a question of fashion cycles—when once a cycle is started it is bound to continue until its span is over. Protestations, crusades, indignations—all of this is so much baying at the moon; each mode will continue until its cycle is finished, and the normal life of a fashion cycle varies between five and ten years.

The new cycle will be distinctly feminine, of course, nor will it make such a fetish of youth as has been done these recent years. And to go for as that is a guide, it would be advisable immediately to adapt your wardrobe accordingly—drapping your skirt from a little higher, and letting your legs show a little longer and a little warmer. Later you will do more, but for the moment these first but significant changes will suffice.

Gold and Black Satin Successfully Combined in Evening Wrap.

rose georgette, built exactly like a raincoat, worn with a white blouse and plaid skirt of the coat fabric.

Classic Dinner Frocks. Dinner frocks in silk lace are classic, or one may choose a simple frock in pale chiffon trimmed with delicate lace, such as green Moult lace or Nicole Groult's green georgette frock with gold scalloped and corded. One Lorette in Chantal's name for a black silk velvet dinner gown with a black velvet velvet cloak with a big rhinestone buckle at the front to accentuate the very full skirt and blooming bodies. The slender rounded robe is in set with worked bands of the velvet overalls.

A young girl may wear Chantal's silk in bright pink robe in brilliant. Run with two separate rows of silk.

Greenberg Will Oppose His Bill

Senator Greenberg Will Oppose Enactment of The Drama Censorship Bill Which He First Introduced.

Albany, N. Y., March 8 (AP)—Senator Abraham Greenberg of New York will oppose enactment into law of the drama censorship bill which he introduced in the Legislature February 1.

This measure is designed to provide that there be created in the state department of education a division of dramatics which would extend to the spoken drama, the same censorship that is now exercised on motion pictures.

At the time of its introduction, Senator Greenberg said that the purpose of the measure was to correct that situation which had resulted in the production of salacious and improper plays in New York. A week or two ago Senator Greenberg announced that inasmuch as the theatrical producers in New York and the Actors' Equity Association had decided to purify the stage from within, he would not press his bill for passage.

Assemblyman Edmund B. Jenks, Republican of Broome, thereupon introduced in the Assembly last week an exact duplicate of the Greenberg bill and indicated that he would press for its passage. A hearing has been set for tomorrow afternoon at which it is expected a large delegation representing producers and actors will be present.

Stormy Session Over Blue Laws

Trenton, N. J., March 8 (AP)—

Amid the flourishes of a debate that will go down on record as the stormiest of the 1927 session, an assembly measure proposing local option in the observance of Sunday and bearing the approval of all advocates of blue law modification last night failed in the lower house by one vote.

The bill would have provided for municipal elections on petition of 18 per cent of the voters who had gone to the polls at a last election. A member changing his vote from aye to no to permit resurrection of the bill, brought the count to 29-29.

In the midst of it all the house adopted a bill by Assemblyman Guillian of Essex, fixing a fine of from $25 to $50 and a maximum of 60 days' imprisonment for barbers who work on Sundays.

Fires Two Shots At His Lawyer

Because of the Manner in Which He Handled His Allegation of Affections Set Against Clintondale Farmer.

New York, March 8 (AP)—Disatisfied with the manner in which his allegation of affections suit against a Clintondale, N. Y., farmer, was handled, Carl Rockaw, a cabinet maker, fired two shots at his lawyer today in the attorney's office in a Broadway building opposite city hall.

The lawyer, William Greenthal, escaped unharmed into the hallway. Rockaw was arrested.

Greenthal had been retained by Rockaw to prosecute his suit against Fred Meyer, whom he accused of alienating the affections of Mrs. Rockaw. The Rockaws live in Manhattan.

FISH IN HOT WATER

Congressman Hamilton Fish wants a state prohibition enforcement law, he told the New York Women's Law Enforcement Committee yesterday, but just how this is to be brought about he does not seem to know. The enforcement of the 18th Amendment in New York state, he says, is a farce and a travesty on law and justice. Thousands of saloons and speakeasies are flourishing throughout the state and doing business in the same old way but at higher prices. It is utterly impossible for three or four hundred poorly paid prohibition agents to enforce the Volstead Act among our eleven million people without the closest cooperation of the state judiciary and the police power of the state. There is only one way to secure the necessary cooperation, and that is by the enactment of some kind of a state enforcement law.

Having delivered this opinion, Congressman Fish is sufficiently honest to admit that an overwhelming majority of the voters, on the only occasion they ever had to have themselves counted, were against him and virtually approved of the repeal of the state enforcement law and opposed the enactment of a new one. The truth is often disagreeable, he says, but unless we are willing to face the facts we might as well cease to discuss the question of enforcement. A large majority of the people in the state either believe that the Volstead Act is too drastic and desire some form of modification or are voting in protest against the non-enforcement conditions in the state. In New York state the referendum showed 1,700,000 for some kind of modification or disqualification with the laxity of enforcement and less than 600,000 against the referendum. Granting that the 500,000 who failed to vote on this question would have all voted on the dry side there remains a majority of 600,000 for modification and against conditions as they are. State legislators whose districts voted three or four to one for the referendum cannot be expected to disregard the expressed views of their constituents. Congressman Fish seems to be making a mighty struggle to favor the continuance of prohibition and at the same time remain truthful and honest and represent fairly the will of the people. In view of the Republican organization having agreed to abide by the result of the referendum, how will Congressman Fish vote on future proposals to make the Volstead Law more drastic? The referendum was mandatory, although to a certain extent unofficial.

The relief over the adjournment of Congress is genuine and general. During the last few days of that body the fever of a possible extra session flared before the country for a brief period. It is hinted that the possibility of an extra session being made necessary, operated in a way at least to expedite business in the closing hours, despite the filibuster. With the old Congress out of the way, all thought and attention is centered on the opening of the 70th Congress which takes place December 5th of this year. The new House will organize with Nicholas Longworth as speaker and with the same chairman on the most important committees. Tilton of Connecticut will continue the headship of Rules. The organization of the Senate is, frankly, in doubt. If Smith and Vane are seated it is generally assumed that the Republicans will organize that body, but in this connection it can be said that even if both men are unelected the Democrats are not as yet making any positive claims as to what they are going to be able to do.

Approximately two thousand miles of bar fixtures, used before prohibition in the service of intoxicating liquors, are now being used throughout the United States in the service of food, according to a survey just completed by the headquarters of the Anti-Saloon League of America. Few of the old bars were destroyed, most of them having been converted into lunch counters, the survey shows. The League seems to think this is proof of the success of prohibition.

hibition, whereas the fact is that under conditions that prohibition has brought about the bar is no longer needed in the business of selling liquor and is, therefore, dispensed with. The automobile has displaced the horse as a means of transportation, but people travel farther and faster than they ever did with horses.

THAT BODY OF YOURS

ONE LOSE DEAD TOOTH.

A patient was stricken down with fever, high bounding pulse, loss of appetite, vomiting, a mild delirium, in fact all the evidences of poisoning of the system.

After intensive investigation, as no trouble could be located elsewhere, the tooth which appeared to be in unusually healthy condition were examined by the X-ray, and one lone filled dead tooth, with its root untreated, was found to be the cause of the severe ailment, septicaemia. The distinctive organisms were located, and the teeth removed.

It is occurrences such as this that teaches the medical man that the teeth, however healthy looking must not be overlooked as a cause of infection throughout the entire body.

We are familiar with the so called rheumatism of joints, arthritis, the majority of cases of which are actually due to infected teeth. The clearing up of acute and chronic cases of arthritis within a few months after the removal of infected teeth, has been observed for the past twenty years.

Dr. C. P. Ball of London, England, makes the following statement: "If we agree as to the great bearing infected teeth has on causing disease throughout the body in general, and in joints in particular, then the time has come when medicine and dentistry should combine together. Perhaps in the future dentistry will be more readily recognized as a specialty in medicine, and the dental specialist will take his place with others specializing in various ailments, for surely a clean mouth is just as important as a healthy clean stomach, intestine, or other part."

I believe you'll agree that when a medical man admits his dependence upon the help of a qualified dentist in searching for and correcting ailments in all parts of the body, that the amalgamation of the dental and the medical professions may not be far distant. However the point is that irrespective of the fact some physicians and some dentists are warning these patients and the public at large, that many good teeth are being "extracted," nevertheless Dr. Mayo, our foremost surgeon, and Dr. Price, our foremost dentist, both agree that retaining badly infected teeth is one of the biggest factors in causing heart disease today.

So don't take chances on infected teeth, particularly grinders. Artificial teeth are much to be preferred to the possibilities of heart, joint, or other infection in the body.

A Madman on a Throne

THE monetary elevation of a madman to a throne in 1762 saved the budding empire of the Hohenzollerns and prevented the breaking of a link in the chain of events that was to lead to the great World War of 1914.

The opening of the Seven Years' war in 1756 found Austria and France in arms against Prussia and England. King Frederick, by his gifts as a warrior and diplomat, had raised Prussia from a third rate kingdom to a rival of the Great Powers. He lost no time in seizing Saxony at the outbreak of war, then crossed the mountains to Bohemia. Austrian forces drove him back into his own domain. Then the powers fell upon him. Russia invaded East Prussia, the Swedes entered Brandenburg from the north, the Austrians pressed into Silesia and the French attacked from the west.

Frederick now earned a place among the greatest generals of history. Hemmed in by superior forces, he first drove furiously at the French at Rosbach and beat them badly. Dashing against the Austrians in Silesia, he captured a third of their army and put the rest to flight. Greatly weakened, however, by incessant fighting, he was forced to adopt defensive tactics. The Russians captured Berlin, and Spain entered the war against him. Despite his heroic exploits, King Frederick was facing inevitable ruin.

Then the Tsarina Elizabeth died and was succeeded on the Russian throne by Peter III, a dangerous madman. Peter was an admirer of Frederick. He immediately transferred his effective army from the alliance with Austria to the side of Prussia. Frederick was saved. The mad Peter was deposed and Catherine II, his successor, promptly withdrew from the war, but Frederick's triumph was already achieved. By the treaty of Hubertsburg (1763) his claim to Silesia was allowed and his right to a place among the powers was established. The might of the Hohenzollerns had arisen, not to fall until the late Kaiser Wilhelm II lost his "place in the sun."

Magic Carpet At Eagle Hotel

Engineers Attending A. T. & T.
Transmission School Conduct Experiments Serving of Fun, but They Have a Useful Purpose.

A "magic carpet" It had a shocking effect upon students at the Transmission School of the American Telephone and Telegraph Company at the Eagle Hotel. The discovery was accidental. A heavy-footed pupil shuffled across the room and playfully touched another on the nose. There was a faint explosion, distinctly heard in all parts of the room. The classmate touched on the nose jumped, he had received a decided shock.

Another experiment was tried.
Again the "shuffler" scuffed his feet across the thick Brussels carpet. He slowly moved his finger toward a chain hanging from the electric light.
When within a half inch of it, as if drawn by magnetic force, the chain leaped to the pointed finger and an explosion followed, releasing the chain to its former position. Suddenly the room became filled with "shufflers".

However, all is not fun for the twenty-two men from five states of the Eastern Division studying to improve telephone, transcontinental service and photography transmission. Long hours of hard study for the most part mark their busy day.
Class begins at 9 a. m. with a red hot lecture by the instructor, which lasts two hours. Then comes two hours of recitation of the lecture just given, and 1 o'clock lunch. Two o'clock finds them back in the classroom wrestling with problem of D. C. and A. C. currents. Then laboratory experiments are conducted and more problems of logarithms, algebra and trigonometry wear away the afternoon.

All students, mostly college men, burn electricity late at night seeking a solution of vexing examples that will gain them their "letter" in the company. This routine continues until Saturday when a lecture from 9 to 12 completes their study. Most of the students go home over the week-end.
Monday the "grind" begins again.

HARSH LAWS RULE IN LAND OF LAMAS

Tibetans Show Little Mercy to Lawbreakers.

In the little-known land of Tibet,
the people are governed by hard and fast and oftentimes drastic laws, the purpose of which seems to be a laudable desire to make the punishment fit the crime.

As a result, where anyone sins very deeply, there is very little left of him or her, when the legal sentences have been carried out.

A hand is cut off, for instance, on first conviction for theft; a foot on second conviction, and so on.

A missionary enjoyed the rare privilege of roaming this barbaric province, from which foreigners are excluded by reason of British influence upon the Peking government. In the course of a lecture on the subject Dr.
Albert E. Andre, a missionary, stated that boiling oil baths are frequent punishments for offenders and that even crucifixion is still practiced in Tibet. With it all, he said, most of the crime is what would be termed petty. Crimes are ignored unless prosecuted by a complaining relative or friend, this applying even to murder.

Matrimonial relations he described as perhaps the most unique in the world. Polyandry is practiced extensively, polygamy only among the wealthy. A woman may have as many legal husbands as she chooses, and usually marries a complete set of brothers. Doctor Andre knew of one woman who married ten brothers.
The oldest brother, doubtless as a matter of common courtesy, is ac-knowledgeed as the father of all the children, the other husbands being rated as mere uncles.

But with so elaborate a string of legal husbands, every wife is entitled to one lover and he is the number one boy. When he calls etiquette dictates that the husbands shall go to the club or at least remove their embarrassing selves for the time.

The official religion is Lamalism and the lamas or priests are theoretically celibates, yet every lama attaches himself to some household as an extra husband and the family is honored indeed that has a lama on the domestic staff.

While robber bands prowl the mountain passes, they seldom molest anyone but rival bands, and it is as safe for a foreigner to travel in Tibet, if he can get in at all, as it is in this country. The true Tibetan he described as particularly distinguished from the Chinaman in that the Tibetan is jovial and laughs long and uproariously over the feeblest joke, whereas the Chinaman is traditionally serious.

"When people can laugh," he said,
"they are seldom dangerous. These people are almost invariably honest, too, though I do not ascribe it to the usual punishments for wrongdoing.
I believe it to be a racial characteristic."

She Was Prejudiced

Maj. Gen. Sir Sifton Branchner, director of civil aviation in England, is the narrator of this one:

Leaving over her garden wall, an old English lady was looking with displeasure at the airplanes flying above an adjacent landing field. She had a sour expression on her face, no noticeable that a passing officer remarked on it.

"What's the matter, mother," he said, "aren't you enjoying the show?"

"No," was her curt response.

"Well, why? It's a good flying show, isn't it?"

"Yes, but ever since I was a little girl, and a bumble bee got under my skirts, I 'steer them things as buzzes."

Plants Fatal to Insects

The tassel, that grows in the tangled corners of the field and other waste places, has its leaves joined together at the base, forming a cup that collects the rainwater and drowns insects. The succulent leaves are like pitchers. They collect the rainwater and feed upon the insects that get drowned. The pitchers of the seepers hang on long stalks, and insects are attracted by their honey glands and bright colors. Once inside they slip down and are drowned.
The English plant, the sundew, feeds upon insects. When a fly settles it is held by a sticky juice that the plant produces, and the hairs, or tentacles,
close around the insect and digest it.

Vicar Turns Smith

Perhaps the experiment of the Rev.
C. G. Langdon, vicar of St. Matthew's City Road, London, will do more than many appeals to convince people that,
for the most part, the remuneration of the clergy is too small for their needs. Mr. Langdon has started to carry on business as craftsman in gold and silver, making small articles of jewelry, in order to make sufficient money to provide his family with necessaries—necessities.—Metropolitan Herald.

Latitude and Longitude

Because of the flattened form of the earth the length of a degree varies somewhat. At the equator a degree of latitude is 69.17 miles in length; at the poles it is 69.49 miles. Likewise the length of a degree of longitude varies. At the equator a degree of longitude is 69.17 miles long; at 90 degrees latitude a degree of longitude is only 54.61 miles long.—Pittsburgh

Daddy's Evening Fairy Tale

MARY GRAHAM BONNER

ANTS' SUMMER HOTEL

Nancy had always said that she thought ants were splendid little creatures because they were so busy and seemed to enjoy working over their homes and carrying food to their children.

So Daddy told her that he had a story to tell her about a summer hotel that the ants had just finished building.

"The idea started with young Mrs. Black Ant, who was quite a gay and giddy young creature."

"She loved lots of fun but she was very capable, too, and she was known as one of the best little housekeepers in the ant world."

"She told the other ants that in order to make their colony popular they ought to have a big summer hotel where all the fashionable ants could come for the summer months, wear their best clothes, and listen to the concerts given by the crickets every evening nearly."

"Now, the ants thought that this was an excellent scheme of hers."

"And she added that of course they must charge enormous prices, because she said that folks who wanted to be fashionable were always willing to pay big prices for—well, just to be fashionable."

"Now, all the ants listened to young Mrs. Black Ant with the greatest of interest, and they wasted no time about settling to work."

"They built their hotel on the top of a fine mound with a beautiful view of the surrounding country, for another thing that young Mrs. Black Ant had told them was that they must brag about their magnificent view."

"The hotel was built in less than a day."

"It certainly was large."

"In fact, the ants were almost afraid it was too large and that they would never be able to get enough 'guests' to come to it."

"They all went around to nearby ant cities telling the ants about the wonderful hotel they had just built with all the modern improvements—sun heat, star light, fresh air breezes, delicious food brought by the ant managers who were very fussy that it would always be of the best."

"And last and perhaps the most important of all would be the concerts of the crickets, which they could listen to every evening, when they could dress up in their best clothes."

"Besides going around themselves, they sent notices on little sticks which they mailed in the ant post office to the far-away ant cities."

"I didn't know ants had a post office," said Nancy.

"They certainly have," replied Daddy. "Their postmen are any of the ants to happen to be going near the cities where the letters are addressed."

"Well, the hotel was a wonderful success."

"They opened with a bang, and the ants who came to stay for the season said:

"This is something this place has always needed."

Grandpa Was Tripping

She was a little girl, four, visiting her aunt and was asked: "Gloria, where's grandpa?" (who was traveling.)

"Oh, she's on a trip," was her prompt reply.

"And where is grandpa?" she was asked next.

"Oh, he's tripping, too."

Inadequate

"And now, Henry," remarked the food father to his son, who had just got out of school, "I want you to come into the business with me so that you can step into my shoes when I retire."

"I might fit into them all right," replied the youth modestly, "but I don't know about your hat."

Obeys the Rules

Two little girls are pictured in London. Humorous preparing for bed. "Edna," said Barbara, "you haven't said your prayers."

Edna—I'm going to say them in bed tonight.

Barbara—Oh, Edna, that isn't etiquette.—Dorcas Transcript.

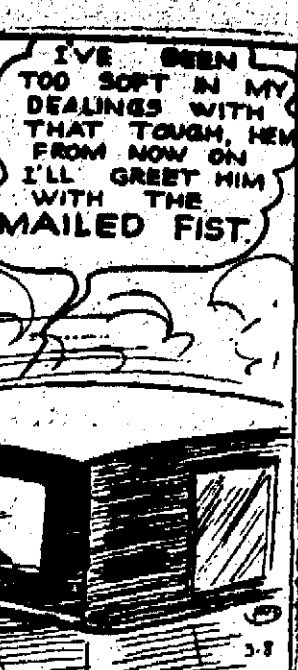

A Common Failing

"Tommy, you can't seem to get any thing right today?"

"The world's champions slump occasionally, etc.," responded the office boy tactfully.

FOUNTAIN OF YOUTH NOT HARD TO FIND

Seeker Can Locate It in Any Spot Desired.

Ponce de Leon crossed the high seas and traveled thousands of miles in a fruitless search for the fountain of youth when he might have found it in his own back yard—so to speak. Like wealth and happiness, health is something that depends quite largely upon the little daily habits of mind and body, and these the individual carries with him even to the ends of the earth.

The doctor, be he never so skillful, has no health to give to another any more than a priest can dole out happiness or a lawyer blot out a crime. The most that a doctor can do is to prescribe and advise and then it's up to the individual to find out health for himself.

The fellow who inherits wealth has to hustle to keep it and he has to guide his transactions by economic laws in order to protect his bank account. Physical health is tied up in the same sort of a bundle. Most everybody inherits a reasonably healthy body, but there are a lot of prodigal sons among these heirs.

Some young fellows find it pretty hard to work when their bank books show a balance of a few thousand dollars. Likewise the youth with an abundance of health fairly bursting from his body sometimes feels that his physical resources are interminable. Three or four nights out per week, a trifling cold, a mild attack of "flu," a few "manly" drinks of mean whiskey, and the old man with a wicked scythe sends his messenger, Pneumonia, to announce that this man's health account is closed, maybe a bit overdrawn.

Lots of people who send an S. O. S. to the doctor are like the victims of wildcat investment schemes who hold post mortem conferences with bankers. A prescription on how to keep well may seem quite commonplace and require one to avoid some of the thrills of night life, but then a real banker never advised any depositor to look for long-chance bargains on the theory that big stakes await the winner, while the loser enjoys the experience of the venture.

Fifteen minutes of physical exercise and a one-mile walk per day coupled with a moderate diet made up of meats, sweets, dairy products, fruits, vegetables, especially the green leafy ones, six or eight glasses of water per day, a bit of sunshine, eight hours' sleep, eight hours' work and eight hours' play, constitute a pretty fair idea of what the ingredients of the fountain of youth are. Ponce de Leon didn't know that, so he looked the world over for what the modern man may find within the threshold of his own doorway.

Long Telephone Lines

The second longest trunk telephone line in the world has recently been opened by the Australian postal department for public traffic between Townsville, in the north of Queensland, and Melbourne, capital of Victoria, a southern state. The line runs almost the entire length of the continent. It is 2,017 miles long, and the New York-San Francisco line is the only line of greater length known to postal officials of Australia. Highly sensitized instruments magnify voice sounds at ten stations along the route. The fee for three minutes' conversation between the two terminals of the line is slightly less than $4 or about half the fee for a similar call over the same length of line in the United States.

Kept Prisoner by Wife

As his wife's prisoner a man has been living in a hayrack on his own farm at Bensheim, near Coblenz, Germany, for over three years. The couple were constantly quarreling over the man's incurable dislike of work. The husband vanished suddenly in 1924, and the wife subsequently obtained a divorce on the grounds of desertion. It is now revealed that the ruthless woman had all patience with her husband's indifference. She locked him into the hayrack, where she kept him a close prisoner. When the man was at last discovered, he resembled a savage of the Stone Age. His uncut hair hung down his back, and his finger nails were two inches long.

Minutemen on Outposts

It is said that the minutemen of the Middle Ages were usually of questionable virtue and honor, and laws were enacted to regulate them. They were called "minutemen" or "roving men," and under the law they were not permitted to inherit property, to collect debts or to take part in Christian ceremonies.

Devastating Love

SHE met him at the seashore. He was her kind of man. So she set out to attract him—and succeeded.

He was married—and told her so. To her that made no difference. She decided there was no harm in a single girl having an "innocent" affair with a married man. So together they passed a wonderful vacation dancing, swimming, motoring, all clean, honest, decent.

It came time for them to part. Then the terrible blow fell. As she saw him go back to home, wife and babies she realized that she had learned to love madly, with all her heart and with all her soul—a married man.

So this girl who hitherto had been the soul of honor determined that, in spite of everything, she would not give up the man she loved and so . . .

This is the opening episode of "Mad Infatuation," one of the seventeen powerful true stories in True Story Magazine for April. Not only a gripping and profoundly moving story, it is an earnest warning against a common error that besets youth in these days of almost unlimited freedom.

We want every girl, every mother, to read this story—to follow the girl who lived it through the series of tragic events that jeopardized the sanctity of an established home and ruined her life. You will find it on page 51 of True Story for April. Be sure to read it.

"HOW THRILLED I WAS—Bert loved me—and, divorced or no divorce, his wife could never take him from me."

Only Real Life Could Produce Dramas Like These

IN every human life, sooner or later, there comes a crisis. Something of great consequence happens. It may be a crisis in love or marriage. It may be honor that is threatened, fortune that is imperilled, happiness that is endangered. Even life itself may be at stake.

The world is full of such dramas—dramas of love and hate, of temptation and wrong, of struggle, defeat, triumph and tragedy. But most of these dramas unfold behind a curtain of secrecy and silence. We learn about them only when they are revealed on the printed page.

Every month between the covers of True Story Magazine the joys and sorrows, the triumphs and failures, the loves, the mysteries of life are woven into dramatic patterns all the more thrilling because they are true.

These fascinating narrative-dramas are written by ordinary everyday persons like yourself. They picture the high and the low, the rich and the poor, the good and the bad, the happy and the sorrowing. In the April issue, for example, are eighteen big features that stir the imagination and tug at the heart-strings as only the dramas of real life can do.

True Story is now on sale at all newsstands—price only a quarter. Get your copy today.

"I DIDN'T LIKE THE WAY HE LOOKED AT ME"—Her husband ill, their savings gone, she took the one chance to save him by finding a medical man, and when called to pass on the living corpse, it was too late to turn back. This girl's tragic story, "I Tried to Save My Home," appears in April True Story.

"SHE ASKED ME TO FORGIVE"—The life often no drama more moving than this tremendous battle of two brothers for a woman's love. "Have You Passed The Way?" is one of the big prize stories in True Story's second $25,000.00 contest. Don't miss it.

"STICK 'EM UP!"—It all began with Don's "sticking for" money, clothes, jewels, fame. This man high, who was the black, but what about the money? Would he keep his word? You won't believe it until you read "Fools Gold" in April True Story Magazine.

"SHE LAY LIMP IN HIS ARMS"—Many graphs death of conversation. When was one of the story. This girl's terrible tale was the story that led to an execution. (See "My Blind Boy," in April True Story Magazine.)

Cat Wins Mistress of Robbers in Home

Oconto, Wis.—That a cat may guard a home from thieves as well as from mice, was proven here recently when "Fat," a 20-pound feline, frustrated the attempts of two robbers in the home of his mistress, Mrs. Helen McClelland.

The cat, startled by the entrance of the men, rushed to the bedroom where Mrs. McClelland slept and awakened her by jumping on the bed.

She investigated the cause of the feline's agitation and heard the intruders making their escape.

FLAGELLANTES SURVIVE IN NORTHERN NEW MEXICO

Members of Fanatical Creed Torture Themselves as Part of Religious Ceremony.

Santa Fe, N. M.—Penitentes remain in the United States to this very day. Within the last month their activities have been repeatedly observed in northern New Mexico in the counties of Taos, Colfax, Rio Arriba, Mora, San Miguel, Sandoval, and Valencia.

This cult of flesh torturers, popularly supposed to have become extinct better than a century ago, believes heavenly bliss can be obtained by torturing the body. They are supposed to be a long removed survival of the Flagellantes, a sect organized in Italy in 1210 A. D.

In the sixteenth century the fanatical creed broke out again, and Pope Clement VII issued a papal bull against them March 25, 1574. From Spain and Portugal the sect was brought to Mexico and it has survived principally among the Indians and half breeds in these thinly settled counties of New Mexico.

There are three orders of penitentes. The first order are allowed to be present only at the sect churches, which are hidden well among the canyons and mountains. Those belonging to the second degree are allowed to hold office, and those of the third degree are obligated to practice self-punishment.

There are two principal methods of self-torture practiced today. The first is to cut a deep cross between the shoulders in which is placed a wooden bit and to the bit is tied a heavy wooden cross which the self-appointed victim drags about over the desert. By the other method they braid ropes of yucca, a long sprayed cactus, and strip themselves and flag one another to the rhythm of ritual chants. Women as well as men are allowed membership in the sect and participate equally in the self-torture.

What's Cost of Poking Conductor in the Eye?

Berlin, Germany.—Sport enthusiasts riding to and from the winter resorts in the Bavarian Alps have damaged the interiors of so many of the jerk-water electric railroad coaches by dragging in their skis and skates that the management, to avoid arguments between conductors and passengers, has posted schedules of breakage charges. By totaling up the fees for the long list of articles, the value of the furnishings of a small coach appears to be about $15,000.

The charge for poking out a window is 20 cents for each five square inches broken or cracked. If the whole pane is ruined the fee is $2. Gas light globes in the electric coaches cost $1; gas mantles 15 cents, electric light bulbs from 40 cents up, iron ash trays 45 cents, brass ash trays $1.50, iron coat hooks 35 cents, brass hooks 60 cents.

Wins Firemen's Lottery After House Burns Down

Budapest.—Emil Peternell, a Hungarian engineer residing in Bucharest, recently bought a ticket in the Rumanian firemen's lottery, the proceeds of which are devoted to indigent firemen's families. A few days after Emil had contributed to the firemen's charities, his house, containing all his belongings, burnt down. The disaster cost Emil his entire fortune, as nothing was insured. While he was still stunned by this blow, Emil was advised that his ticket had won the biggest lottery prize, totaling 1,000,000 Rumanian lei, or approximately $5,000.

Gold in Walls Where Sons Killed Father

Kansas City, Mo.—The murder of a father by his two sons nearly half a century ago was vividly recalled in the community of Reedsdale, Mo., recently when workmen tore down the old farm residence of Dr. F. H. Talbot and found a number of $20 gold pieces inside the walls of the room in which the doctor lost his life. More than 4000 was found the first day and it is thought that there is more money hidden in the walls. Doctor Talbot was shot by his sons the night of September 19, 1890, and died a short time later. The sons were hanged July 22, 1892, after three trials.

Record as Sailor Paris.—Seventy-one years at sea was the record of Alfred Rowell, dean of French seamen, who died at the age of eighty-three years.

Milk Producers' Service Letter

During the present week, members of the Ulster County Farm Bureau interested in the production of milk will receive a letter from the organization headquarters in Kingston, calling their attention to a monthly feed service letter prepared by Professor H. A. Hopper at Cornell. A copy of the March letter will be enclosed together with a return card to be filled out and mailed to the Farm Bureau office by who wish to be placed on the mailing list to receive the ensuing letter monthly. This monthly letter is entitled "The Full Milk Pail".

The title being phrased from the purpose of the letters, to encourage methods and management of dairy herds that tend toward increased production and at a lower cost per unit. FOOD WE ALL LIKE

We are told that the average American eats at least one-third more food than he needs. If we could learn to stop eating before we have reached the stage of feeling stuffed, and manage what we eat at least four times longer than we usually do, we would be fully satisfied with much less food. We would have less indigestion and headache and live more efficient and useful lives.

Eggs Shired With Sausages.—Prick six sausages all over and place around the edge of a baking dish, cook in a hot oven until crisp and brown, pour off the fat and cut the sausages into inch pieces; break three fresh eggs in the center of the dish, pour over two tablespoonfuls of fat and set into the oven to cook the eggs. Serve from the baking dish.

Banana Salad.—Take one cupful of thick cream, three tablespoonfuls of lemon juice, one-half teaspoonful of paprika and a teaspoonful of powdered sugar. Whip the cream and add the lemon juice gradually. Place peeled bananas on lettuce and pour over the dressing.

Okra Savory.—Take one quart of okra cut into quarter-inch slices crosswise, mix with two cupfuls of diced celery, one green pepper diced and one small onion chopped. Cook in four tablespoonfuls of fat until the vegetables begin to get soft. Add two large ripe tomatoes cut into pieces or the equivalent of stewed tomatoes. Simmer gently one hour. Serve hot.

Feather Cake.—Take one cupful of sugar, one cupful of milk, two and one-half cupfuls of flour, one teaspoonful of lemon extract, one teaspoonful of cream of tartar, one-half teaspoonful of soda, one tablespoonful of butter and a pinch of salt. Mix and beat well. Bake in a loaf.

Veal Pie.—Cook a piece of the neck of veal—cook until tender—with a piece of salt pork. Cut into bits and arrange in a baking dish, add cream, seasonings, cover with crust and bake until brown.

Italian Women, Like Other Fashionables, Show a Preference for Color, Especially Red and Green.

Genoa, Italy.—Many Americans forsake their own country and spend the winter months on the Riviera. It is becoming rather the vogue to approach Nice, Cannes, and Monte Carlo by way of Italy instead of France. This, of course, makes Naples and Genoa, the two principal ports, of considerable style interest, and brings into the limelight resorts along the Mediterranean, which are known as the Italian Riviera.

Italian women, usually extremely handsome, are not far, if any, behind French and Spanish women in the matter of dressing. At present they, like the rest of us, seem especially attracted by color. They wear both reds, the darker shades, and greens, also in the lower range, and are given to gold embroidery, lace, and beading. One sees the successes of Paris adopted in Genoa, so that fringes and spangles may be cited as most important for evening, and dark cloth coats, rather lavishly trimmed in natural lynx or fox for day wear.

A large hat, it seems certain, would cause something of a sensation. The preference here, as elsewhere, is for felts, with wine-colored ones easily leading.

DEMONSTRATION OF SOUPS AND CHOWDERS

The last classes of the Central Hudson home service winter series will be held this week in the home service auditorium at 5 Field Court. On Wednesday evening at 7:30 and Thursday afternoon at 2:30, Miss Fannie C. Kirk will demonstrate "Soups and Chowders." Often a clear soup or chowder, supplemented by a crisp salad, or dessert composes an entire meal; and besides being appetizing has the advantage of not causing any gain in weight. It fits in well with the economy and nutrition program for the home, and a class discussion of soups and chowders comes in answer to many requests.

Financial and Commercial

New York, March 3 (AP).—The stock market experienced another sinking spell this morning but rallied briskly on the appearance of strong buying support in some of the recent industrial leaders. Baldwin, General Motors and several others made up early losses of 2 to nearly 4 points by early afternoon when the market was again headed upward.
Announcement of new government financing on a 3 1/2 and 3 3/4 per cent basis, coupled with the establishment of new highs by the United States government bonds and prompt oversubscription of a $22,000,000 Pennsylvania, Ohio and Detroit Railroad bond issue, testified to the general ease of the credit situation and revived talk of a possible reduction in the New York Federal Reserve re-discount rate.

Early selling was directed chiefly against the motors and the oils,
both of which industries have suffered recently from price cuts. The spectacular advance in Housatonic from 112 1/2 to about 120, the brisk recovery in General Motors and the sustained strength of Hudson stimulated considerable short covering in other issues.

Disappointing current traffic statements contributed to the heaviness of the rails with Wabash, St.
Louis Southwestern, Reading, Lehigh Valley and Canadian Pacific showing substantial recessions.

Elroy & Co., members N. Y. Stock
Exchange, 120 Broadway, New York

SUCCESS RULES

An old almanac has the following
"Alphabet of Success":

- Attend carefully to details.
- Be prompt in all things.
- Consider well, then decide positively.
- Dare to do right, fear to do wrong.
- Endure trials patiently.
- Fight life's battles bravely.
- Go not into the society of the vicious.
- Hold integrity sacred.
- Injure not another's reputation.
- Join hands only with the virtuous.
- Keep your mind free from evil thoughts.
- Lie not for any consideration.
- Make few special acquaintances.
- Never try to appear what you are not.
- Observe good manners.
- Pay your debts promptly.
- Question not the word of a friend.
- Respect the counsel of your parents.
- Sacrifice money rather than principle.
- Touch not, taste not, handle not intoxicating drink.
- Use your leisure for improvement.
- Venture not upon the threshold of wings.
- Watch carefully over your passions.
- Extend to everyone a kindly greeting.
- Yield not to discouragement.
- Zealously labor for the right, and success is certain.

EVERYDAY CREED

- I believe in human kindness.
- I believe in the efficacy of soap.
- I believe in the simple life of the home.
- I believe in the hearty handshake,
in hospitality, comradeship, friendship,
love.
- It is a good thing to have a creed and then live up to it. We commend the following:
- I believe in fun and laughter, both as a tonic for the blues and as an outlet for high spirits.
- I believe in the beauty of flowers,
sunsets and mountains; in the music
of birds and brooks.
- I believe that there is a bright side to everything, and that we would be more aware of the good about us were our hearts more responsive to its touch.
- I believe that work is the best panacea for most ills, especially those of the mind; and that fresh air, exercise and sleep are the best medicines for the body.
- I believe that an ounce of frankness and explanation is worth a pound of repentance and forgiveness, and will often prevent heartache and bitter misunderstanding.—Exchange.

DAILY HELPS

- Sunday—Be that waiteth upon the Lord shall want no manner of thing that is good.

cheerful worker.

findeth to do, do it with thy might.
- Wednesday—Make God your Partner in all you do, then most all be well done.

FOOD PROVERBS

- "After cheese comes nothing."—Old Saying.
- "Cheese breeds melancholy."—Ben Jenson.
- "Apples, pears and nuts spoil the voice."—Old Saying.
- "Brown bread and the Bible is good fare."—Frisian Proverb.
- "Butter spoils so sweet and moderate,
that no cream."—Danish Proverb.
- "People die to fast, for many dishes bring many diseases."—Italy.
- Curling the Hair

The new style in hair dressing for elderly British women is to have their hair curled like a barometer's coil. If the hair is gray it makes it all the more effective. Women with purple and black velvet dress, the style is as effective.

against the proposal, Louis A.

dren. Her father for many years was the oldest and most prominent families of Ulster county. Mrs. Tebow resident of Kingston and for many years was an active member of St.

John's Church. She was a woman

manager of the Kingston Consolidated Railroad.

CROSBY LOSES EMPLOYERS SUIT AGAINST VANDEMARE

A jury in police court Monday evening in the action brought by Arthur H. Crosby against Benjamin VanDemare to dispossess VanDemare from the premises at 127 1/2 O'Neil street, brought in a verdict of no cause of action. Mr. Crosby conducted his own case while Attorney F. C. Merritt appeared for Mr.
VanDemare.
Mr. Crosby contended that Mr.
VanDemare owed him for two months' rent while Mr. VanDemare brought in a counter claim that he had performed work for Mr. Crosby that entitled him to retain the premises until April 1, in which the jury agreed.

NATURE LAUGHS AT MAN'S PUNY NIGHT*Nothing He Builds Can Withstand Avalanche.

The power of the avalanche is colossal and immeasurable. A small stone breaking loose from the high or mountain levels, gathers and grows; increases in rapidity of motion; bounds from crag to crag, breaking off boulders and plancies; tearing up trees and growing ever growing,
until no man-made structure is capable of withstanding its advance.

One Good Friday, in the little city of Trail in the Kootenays, a small avalanche, which only slid a few hundred feet, resulting in two houses being split together by a pine tree, which was driven through the walls of the two houses, fastening them together as two pieces of paper may be spliced by a pin. The houses, still distanced together, were then dumped over a 50-foot embankment to the road below, to the consternation of the occupants, who fortunately escaped bruises.

All through the Canadian Rockies broken strips of trees, like a big cut roadway, indicate the one-time course of an avalanche.

The colossal Dent du Midi avalanche, which has driven the Rhone from its bed for half a mile, carried away a railway bridge, and swept into a morass of mud and boulders a considerable stretch of the line between Montreux and the Simplon tunnel, is a reminder of the puny impudence of man to control many of the great forces of nature. Nothing can be done to curb the earthquake and the tidal wave, the hurricane and the volcano, the lightning—and the mountain slides.

Considerable loss of life was only just averted in this case by a failure of the bridge to collapse. A failure of the bridge would have meant a red flag, to stop a crowded express that was thundering down from the Simplon, along the brink of the Rhone.

Old Lady Got Even

A little old lady was taking her first ride on a railway train. She noticed that at every station the conductor descended from the train, and, after the passengers had departed, raised his arm and waved his hand in a peculiar manner. Finally she stopped him when he passed through the car and said "

Small Fruits For New York

Varieties of raspberries, blackberries, dewberries, currants, gooseberries and strawberries best suited to New York have been listed by Dr. U. P. Hedrick, horticulturist at the Experiment Station at Geneva where practically every variety of these fruits that will mature in this state has been grown. These lists are intended chiefly as a guide to the selection of varieties for commercial plantings and are arranged in order of ripening. For the home planting additions might be made which would not be practical in commercial plantings.

Red raspberries are represented by June, Ontario, Herbert, Cuthbert and Latham. In addition to being good commercial varieties these sorts also have the important advantage of withstanding fairly well the frosts of raspberry mosaic, although they are not immune to this disease.

Black raspberries include Black Pearl, Cumberland, Plum Farmer and Gregg. Columbian is recommended as a good purple raspberry, and Ranere and Eskine Park as so-called everbearing raspberries.

Among the blackberries, choice falls to Agawan, Eldorado, Erie, Kittatinny, Rathbun and Snyder. The Lucretia dewberry is recommended as a valuable sort for this type of fruit.

The currants include Cherry, Fay, White Grape, Perfection, Wilder and Prince Albert, all good sorts for their season. Among the gooseberries Poorman, Chausiqua and Industry are mentioned, especially Gooseberries are said by Dr. Hedrick to suffer in this country for lack of good varieties. These three are better than the average, he says.

More than 1,200 varieties of strawberries have been grown on the station grounds in addition to many thousands of seedlings. The following varieties represent the best for their season in Dr. Hedrick's judgment. In order of ripening he recommends Howard, Beacon, Joe, Chesapeake, Boquet, Bliss, Sample and Belt. Progressive and Superb are mentioned as good types of everbearing strawberries.

He was Right and Wrong. "What boat is that?" asked a backwoodsman of his more learned companion, looking at the ferryboat in Rondout.

"That's the Transport."

A day later in New York harbor, with same companion.

"There's lots of Transports here," said the mountaineer.

NOTICE TO CHICK RAISERS

Beware of Mouldy Litter

Straw, Hay, Clover, Chaff, etc., this season were in many cases wet when put away. Therefore, even though it may now be dry a large portion of it may be mouldy.

Mouldy litter is very dangerous for chicks. The chicks inhale the mould spores which develop very rapidly in their lungs causing the disease, Aspergillosis, sometimes called "brooder pneumonia."

This is a very serious disease which causes the death of large numbers of chicks when they are brooded on mouldy litter. Be careful of litter you use. A safe, sanitary litter that is satisfactory in every way is O. K. Poultry Litter which is made of imported peat.
